

SECURITY BREACH

▶ VIDEO SERIES SPONSORSHIP

Security Breach is a weekly video podcast from Manufacturing.net & Manufacturing Business Technology. Each episode will cover the increasing threat from hackers and bad actors with a focus on the most vulnerable sector: manufacturing.

OVERVIEW

One of the biggest issues emerging from the pandemic has been the huge uptick in industrial cyberattacks. Bad actors are looking to take advantage of what they feel is one of the most vulnerable sectors in terms of cybersecurity – manufacturing. A combination of weaker, untested security protocols and the plethora of intellectual and personal data available makes the industrial sector an extremely appealing target.

In response, the video series from Manufacturing.net - Security Breach, looks to offer the insight and tools needed for an enterprise to ready their defenses in preparation for these inevitable attacks, and develop strategies for responding in order to mitigate the impacts of these hacks. The episodes have provided access to industry experts detailing phishing schemes, ransomware attacks, DDoS hacks, foreign state activities, and overall best practices for protecting people and data. Market dynamics tells us these attacks will not stop. So neither will our efforts to help keep manufacturers secure.
